iLinux OS Talk

Thank you for Servers and iLinux

Dimitris 29 Apr 2022 21:07:04

Hi! I am a student of computer sciences in University of Crete. Just want to say thank you to iLinux programmers for Servers and for iLinux as a project. It is a big help for us new in linux because it is very easy and helps us to learn linux faster because of it's scriptable structure. Servers is a very big help for me because I was trying to setup various servers in Ubuntu and it was so messed up. Any chance of releasing a SQL Server gui in the near future?

#1. Dimitris 30 Apr 2022 04:24:55

I also like that iLinux has many command line programms preinstalled. :-)

#2. Dimitris 30 Apr 2022 04:28:25

Oh and I love Dukto! It is a very big help for LAN transfers because no sharing is needed no matter the OS.

#3. iLinux Support Team 30 Apr 2022 06:56:26

Hi! Welcome to iLinux Community!

Always a pleasure to see happy users!

SQL Server GUI is under consideration but we can't make any promises.

In the meantime use the preinstalled Applications DB Browser for SQLite and emma to manage SQL Databases.

#4. i386 30 Apr 2022 09:08:01

A big thank you from me too! Time Machine Server works like a charm!

#5. i386 30 Apr 2022 10:46:54

@Dimitris

Dukto is da bomb! One of the most useful apps ever!!!

#6. iLinux Support Team 30 Apr 2022 11:43:48

@Dimitris

Regarding a GUI for SQL Server, things are more complicated compared to existing Servers in iLinux OS, because SQL Configuration must fit the needs of the Administrator/User installing SQL Server.

It's almost impossible for us to guess what Configuration will be chosen by the Administrator/User who is installing SQL using the Default Installation DEB Package:

https://dev.mysql.com/downloads/repo/apt/

So, until further notice SQL Server GUI is on hold but we promise to look into it in detail.

iLinux Support Team added on 01 May 2022 04:22:37

We are now testing a GUI for MariaDB Server, which is pre-isntalled in iLinux OS and 100% compatible with SQL Server.

Stay tuned!

iLinux Support Team added on 01 May 2022 04:40:45

In the meantime you can use MariaDB via the Web Interface of iLinux System Server (Webmin):

iLinux System Server > Unused Modules > MariaDB Database Server

Direct Web Address is:

https://localhost:10000/mysql/

#7. iLinux Support Team 01 May 2022 05:05:26

@Dimitris

Additionally you can load SQL Management related Extensions in Application Visual Studio Code, which is pre-installed in iLinux OS via:

Visual Studio Code > View Menu > Extensions

#8. Dimitris 01 May 2022 08:19:33

@i386

You are right. Dukto should be preinstalled in all devices/OS's and not just iLinux. I first used it in iLinux and now I can't imagine my life without it!

@iLinux Support Team

Thank you very much for your replies! I understand. Did a little Google research and I see what you mean. It would be great though if you could create a GUI for MariaDB and phpMyAdmin!

#9. iLinux Support Team 01 May 2022 08:39:59

@Dimitris

> “ It would be great though if you could create a GUI for MariaDB and phpMyAdmin! ”

We are already experimenting on it! ;-)

#10. Dimitris 04 May 2022 07:47:12

@iLinux Support Team

I just want to say that you have done a very good job with Vitrual Hosts in Apache Web Server. It is all so easy, clean and infromative. I have direct access to the configuration files directory and each configuration file has the port number on it's name. What I like about iLinux is that I learn by doing due to it's scriptable structure. I can see the code of each function without decompiling and that's a great plus for me.

#11. iLinux Support Team 04 May 2022 13:31:53

@Dimitris

> “ What I like about iLinux is that I learn by doing due to it's scriptable structure. ”

That was the intent. ;-)

#12. ClickNin 05 May 2022 07:32:31

I'm curious, what in these "scripts"?
Also, the term "decompile" is used wrong here. If it's a script, that mean it doesn't get compiled into anything (bytecode, machine code, etc) and thus can be easily readable by opening the script in a Text Editor. So yeah, I might be wrong if you meant something else.

#13. DigiDeLorean 05 May 2022 11:39:48

Virtual Hosts in Apache Web Server is an absolute joy to use. The GUI is insanely simple and you can play endlessly with multiple websites without complex command line sequences. If iLinux developers create a similar GUI for MariaDB/SQL/phpMyAdmin server then we are talking about a major tectonic shift in computing...

iLinux Servers suite is already setting the standard on how simple can be for anyone to use servers but if they can pull this off for MariaDB/SQL/phpMyAdmin as well it will be mayhem in the linux landscape...

#14. Not CCP 05 May 2022 12:11:04

I'd hate to disrupt this thread once again, but wouldn't it make a major shift in the whole of Linux and the community if the creator made it available to everyone and provide source code? I like the developer's perspective of making things easier, and making TUI and complicated applications into an easy to use and understand GUI interface.

Every week (or even day) there's always some new software. However it doesn't benefit Linux or most users (not saying it should benefit, but just saying) and most of the software is always some new terminal program or some small fun tool.

The creator should also consider making their software open-source. Again, I don't want to disrupt this thread, and I know what @root talked about the "Dark Web Linux Mafia Gang" but I disagree with what the creator said about making software open source.

> “ They want you to release your Proprietary Code as FOSS in order to profit from it. ”

Honestly I don't know how would one profit from making the code open source.

> “ It's a classic tactic of the Linux Mafia Army, to apply negative psychological pressure in order to discredit and discourage developers, steal their code and profit from it in any way. ”

I think this never really happen, but one prime example is nVidia and Valve:

nVidia drivers are terrible on Linux, due to the neglect of nVidia. I have seen many "cursing" on nVidia, getting them to make the drivers open-source and even a hacker that threatened nvidia to hack them, unless they make the drivers open source. The hacker (Lap$us) got arrested.

Basically, if nVidia made their drivers open source, with community contributions, they can be better on Linux, and possibly as good as the driver on Windows. Currently, the open source nvidia driver is better than the proprietary one right now.

About Valve:

Valve is the company behind Steam, the popular game store and manager on PC. It's where most games are on.

Recently Valve (Gabe Newell, the founder) has seen that Linux can be a viable gaming platform, and he is doing everything to make it better. The Linux Community (almost everywhere) likes Valve for their efforts for revitalising Linux gaming. However, Steam is not open source, however no one complains about it.

It's biased but I guess that's how it is.

There's also Snap, which many users particularly don't like and Ubuntu has been going downhill just because the Snap Store is not open source....

Thanks for reading. Have a good day.

DRILL IT DEEP IN YOUR BRAIN(S) AND DRILL IT GOOD:

THE CODE WRITTEN BY iLINUX OS DEVELOPERS FOR iLINUX OS WILL NEVER BE OPEN SOURCE.

NEVER.

#16. Not CCP 05 May 2022 12:43:21

I don't know if you read my reply correctly.

But the reason I asked was because the GTK library is licensed under the LGPL, which demands developers using GTK to keep their code open source and follow the 4 freedoms.

Your programs are made with GTK, but it is closed like source, which is a violation of the LGPL.

#22. ClickNin 05 May 2022 13:25:17

Now come to main problem, when will we stop?

This has come too far now, just stop.
They made it, they decide how they will license it.
Suggestions, doesn't agree, fine.

Just stop already, it's not worth it to continuing push this any further.
Sorry to everyone for my rude actions, this may be my last message here (unless if you guys wanted a new war).

Please read my message above please.
If they don't do that, fine. That's not my task, it's up to Linus Torvalds, Debian and GTK developers to do whatever they want. I just want to mention about that.

> “ You are a paid FOSS fascist thug of the Linux Mafia Army. ”

Any proof that I'm paid? I'm not even in any Linux community before, I'm just a software developer that do that as a hobby and never worked on big projects before. I have my life also and no way someone is going to pay me to raid a stupid forum.

> “ And for "interface ripping" do your homework before talking. Study computer interface history... ” iLinux are ripping macOS's interface. It has no way related to GUI history.

#37. ClickNin 06 May 2022 06:28:34

The problem is not iLinux are ripping it, but you said that Tim Cook is also a "fascist cock suckers", imagine saying that in front of them. macOS is a Apple product which Tim Cook is now a SEO, so by saying that, why rip their interface anyway?
Also no matter what country you live, if you do something illegal (on internet) you will still get punished. At least that's from my knowledge.

#38. Fotini 06 May 2022 07:14:35

@ClickNin

Are you really attempting to intimidate me you Linux Mafia thug?! LMAO to that!!!

After Steve Jobs' death Tim Cook publicly admitted that he is gay, aka cock sucker and that's fine. It's not illegal to be gay or sucking cocks. Nor it's illegal to say that a cock sucker is a cock sucker. You simply describe what he chooses to do in his sex life and that's fine.

Edward Snowden's revealed how Apple, Google, Facebook and other companies provide back doors for all US Secret Agencies to monitor and store all our data in a totalitarian and fascist way, so yes, Tim Cook is a fascist cock sucker too.

If you knew the least about computer interface history you would know that macOS started when Steve Jobs bought it from Xerox http://toastytech.com/guis/star.html . You would also know the history of the Dock:

1984 – First version of MacOS is released. No Dock.

1987 – Arthur (the pre-cursor to Risc OS) had a nice little Dock in it.
http://toastytech.com/guis/riscos.html

1989 – RISC OS 2 had an even better Dock in it.

1989 (Later that year) – NeXTSTEP (the pre-cursor to MacOS X) had a nice little Dock in it.

1993 – CDE (Common Desktop Environment) released with a nice Dock. CDE becomes a big, big deal in the Unix and Linux worlds.

1994 – OS/2 3.0 contained a floating dock.

2001 – MacOS X is released with a Dock.

2007 – iOS Launched with a dock.

Apple, Microsoft, Google, Facebook and other companies censor you and profit from your data without giving you a piece of the profit. This is criminal. This is fascism.

#42. ClickNin 06 May 2022 09:16:43

> “ Apple, Microsoft, Google, Facebook and other companies censor you and profit from your data without giving you a piece of the profit. This is criminal. This is fascism. ”

This is true, but you can't really do anything. In fact, you are using their product anyway (Google Chrome is the best example for this, if you are not using it, ok. Google search is the same) and hey, at least Android is open source and custom ROM exists, so you won't get tracked by installing these custom ROMs (it's made by the community).
For iOS, you can't really do anything. Although they provide these "security" features, the system is proprietary so you don't know what happen behind the scene.
About criminal, fascism, user data is same for all companies, good luck trying to change that (although I hope one day that will change, but that's how people make money).
Linux is here to change that anyway. Open Source + Customizable.
If a product is proprietary, you are the product. Since you don't know what they are doing behind the scene. Open Source product allow you to see the source code and know what the product does.

It's hilarious how you guys accuse us as paid Linux haters when we are criticizing iLinux.

You can apply the same logic with Snapcraft haters or haters for anything. Dislike Facebook? Paid Facebook hater. Dislike Ubuntu? Paid Ubuntu hater.

You do the same with "Linux Mafia Gang". Dislike iLinux? Paid Dark Web Linux Mafia Gang member.

"Linux Mafia Gang" does not exist. It is something you made up to address iLinux haters in this forum, and now you believe that it is a real thing. Search up on the internet "Dark Web Linux Mafia Gang". You will get absolutely nothing because it doesn't exist. Yet you think we are a member of some non exist dark web gang when I have never visited the dark web at all!

> “ Apologize now and end the Illegal Unproven Unsubstantiated Slandering Campaigns you have waged against the Lead Developer of iLinux OS, George Dimitrakopoulos, and us. ”

What I did, I'm giving suggestions about what I think you are doing wrong. If you don't like it, fine, just stop calling me a mafia. Also I stopped posting ages ago, but your "community member" kept swear and throw all of these words at me, making me angry. It's not illegal, I'm just use reference from GNU, which can be publicly accessable. Well, I guess you will never understand RIP.

First, before even getting me into the court because you think I did something illegal (I never stole anything from you, I never used iLinux or forcing you to do anything, Linux is Linux Torvalds and FSF's right, not mine. Go talk to them, I will found that your license is proprietary and I'm using reference from GNU (look like you haven't not even read the site yet :o), just tell your community member to fix the grammar, stop calling me a mafia (I'm not even getting paid, and did you really think that someone is going to pay me to just say shitty stuff on a forum?). Also your "community member" also posting false claims and information from random untrusted sources from Google, is that legal at all? Freedom of Speech is no way a valid defense for swearing and bullying others for absolute no reasons, just because I'm giving suggestions, just saying my opinions, and just suggest you to do something about the system and the license (please, for the sake of god, read the site I have linked). Freedom of Speech here have no ABSOLUTE MEANING. Is that even legal at all?

Ah yes, good luck with getting me into the court by saying something on a forum that is even have no protection at all . You choose a forum software that doesn't even a proper moderation system and very outdated and then saying the "username" trick a security breach. I did nothing illegal. You can't get someone into the court if someone say your product is a "scam", you can't get someone into the court if they said you stole someone else's work. If that happen, I guess half of the Minecraft community and half of the world will get into the court with you.

Well that's all, no means to be rude but that's. Ah yes, thank you for reviewing my Youtube channel and Github, maybe leave me a star and subscribe :)
